CHAPTER FIVE

5.0 PROCEDURES AND CRITERIA FOR APPROVING EXAMINATIONS SET AND ADMINISTERED BY THE AUTONOMOUS TECHNICAL INSTITUTIONS

5.1 ASSESSMENT

- 5.1.1 Assessment is the general term used for measuring students' performance on a course or module against the aims and objectives of that course or module. Assessment may be formative or summative depending on whether its results are used to evaluate the student's final course results.
- 5.1.2 Formative Assessment is assessment administered as part of teaching to enhance training. It is comprised of questions and assignments set to help the student learn effectively. The performance of students in the formative assessment is not used to evaluate the student's final grade results. The formative assessment also includes the placement and diagnostic assessments.
- 5.1.3 Placement assessment is used by a student and an advisor or counsellor to help the student decide which courses to take. Placement testing helps the student to enter the course modules at the proper starting point. The result is that one will have a better chance of completing the courses and earn good grades. Course placements based on the assessments may be mandatory in some cases. Placement results can be used to demonstrate that the student has met the prerequisites for specific courses. Additionally, they can be used to demonstrate that the student has satisfied the institutions general education competency requirements.
- 5.1.4 Diagnostic Assessment is designed to screen students to identify support needs on their chosen course. The assessment results provide important insights into students' current knowledge, skills and attitude. Students and their advisors use the information to select or recommend those courses most suited to their academic needs. This helps to ensure that institutions provide high quality teaching to all students. It assesses attainment, but development is continuing and the information from its use is being collected to facilitate further studies.
- 5.1.5 Summative Assessment is assessment administered to determine a student's overall level of performance on the course. It comprises of questions and assignments from which the student's performance in terms of grades or scores is used in determining the student's course result.
- 5.1.6 Continuous assessment is an ongoing process that measures a learner's achievement during the course of a grade or level, providing information that is used to support a learner's development and enable improvements to be made in the learning and teaching process. Continuous assessment may comprise of a combination of several controlled tests, homework, essays and practical.

5.2 GUIDELINES FOR PREPARATION AND ADMINISTRATION OF VARIOUS MODES OF CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT

5.2.1 SELECTION OF CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT COMPONENTS

The Course Committee for the course shall decide on the variety and mixture of continuous assessment for a course module (i.e. the type of assignment, the number of separate submissions and the length of each, the amount of choice within a submission and the number of sub-scores) taking into consideration the following constraints:

The need to teach and assess candidates adequately, while not overburdening them with required work. The need to test the type and level of knowledge, skills and attitudes expected to be acquired by candidates being trained.

The need for the assessment score to reflect the individual candidate's performance as opposed to group performance when dealing with take home assignments.

The need to keep within budget when calculating tutor-payments, and other costs related to assessments.

Course Committee may select from the following continuous assessment elements, based on their relevance to the module being assessed

Homework/assignments which allow students to work at their own pace to meet a pre-set deadline with free access to source material, course units, etc.

Classroom tests: written work from unseen questions, which can be tutor marked or Computer marked type.

Projects: require students to gather source material themselves, involving a written submission of work marked and commented upon by a course tutor and/or independent assessor.

Practical Component: assessment of practical skills, which the course committee wishes to identify separately from any practical work that may be assessed via Tutor Marked Tests or Computer Marked Tests.

Field Attachment: assessment of practical skills attained during practical training in the industry within one's field of specialized training. The student shall be required to compile and submit a report on the activities performed during the field attachment including the type of training, level of training, the skills learned, the problems tackled, the solution procedures adopted and experiences. They may also be required to investigate and/or analyses a specific problem or process in the industry and submit a specific report on the same.

End of Course/module Tests: The assessment component to be completed in a controlled environment normally held for predetermined duration of written examination at the end of the course and based on a choice of unseen questions. The examination can be script marked, or computer marked, or a combination of both. The primary purpose of examinations being to assess the skills, performance and ability

Other elements of assessment which may at some level in the programme, or on courses outside that programme involve replacement of the normal written examination by another element of assessment e.g. end of course essay, project, seen examination. Alternatively, it may be appropriate for such an element to be combined with the written examination to form the examinable component. Where other forms of assessment are being considered it is important to ensure that a mechanism is established to verify that the assessment assignment is completed by the individual student.

The Self-Assessment Questions (SAQs) may be included in the course material, for use by students to assess their own level of achievement with the help of answers and comments also provided in the course material, as part of formative continuous assessment.

5.3 ADMINISTRATION OF CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT

Academic departments in the training institutions shall hand out to students every year, at the beginning of the semester, a clear statement of how each of their courses is to be assessed, carefully specifying what pieces of work are or are not to be counted in the final assessment, and what weighting is to be assigned to the various components of the assessment scheme.

If oral performance is to be assessed, there shall be specific teaching relating to it, the students should be aware of how it is to be assessed, and special efforts should be made to involve a number of staff in assessing the oral presentation. Coursework that is used for assessment shall be of a type that can be made available for use by External Examiner.

A panel of at least two markers/instructors may be involved in marking a student's course work. However, this need not mean "double-marking". Under no circumstance shall one member of staff mark all the exams, tests, projects, etc. for all the courses that contribute to a student's final assessment.

Students shall be informed about their performance in continuous assessment throughout the year/semester so that they can monitor their progress. However, they should also be made aware of the fact that marks for continuous assessment are just provisional.

At the beginning of a module comprising or including assessed practical work the nature of the work and how it is to be assessed, which may involve oral examination for major projects, shall be explained to the students. In particular, the following shall be taken into consideration in the assessment of a practical or project work: Assessment of a major project work or group work shall include oral examination (viva-voce) at which the student is asked questions to help determine the depth of understanding.

The deadlines for submission of reports must be noted and observed by the students. Penalties for late submission leading to loss of marks unless there are extenuating circumstances, such as illness certified by a doctor shall clearly be spelt out to candidates at the beginning of the course/module.

Essays and assignments shall be assessed on the basis of students' ability to discuss a topic, to present evidence of research, to weigh up different points of view, to offer their own ideas and opinions supported by reasoned argument, and to present the whole in a well-structured manner.

The continuous assessment for each module shall be completed prior to its examination at the end of the semester in which it is offered.

5.4 CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT ARRANGEMENTS INITIAL PLANNING

Assessment shall be planned as an integral part of the course design by the course team in consultation with at least one external examiner or assessor and the Academic Head of Division. Such consultation shall take place at an early a stage as possible.

In planning an assessment strategy, the aim shall be to achieve a balance appropriate to the nature and requirements of the course, and a balance and variety of assessment types to ensure that students have the best opportunity to show their ability. Course Teams will therefore need to consider:

Which continuous assessment elements are to be offered?

The number of submissions within each component and the length of each, subject to the constraints of the total student workload and the total budget available and the operational constraints (e.g. timetable);

Which submissions in each element are to be designated summative and which, if any, shall be formative;

The weighting of each summative submission, and the part scores within it, and of the continuous component relative to the examination

5.5 USE OF CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT ELEMENTS

Training departments shall select the elements of the continuous assessment to achieve the aims of the course, comprising of:

Formative assignments that are not used for assessment purposes and are not, therefore, used in the calculation of a student's course score, but may be used, for example, where a course team wishes to encourage students to experience and respond creatively to the stimulus of the course work, unimpeded by any concern about grades that might be given.

Summative assignments that are used for assessment purposes and will, therefore, be used in the calculation of a student's overall course score.

Where various components of assessments are involved, the training department may specify a threshold for specific assessment component(s) if they feel that a student must pass a particular component in order to pass the course. Such thresholds may be associated with any element of assessment; failure to reach such a specified threshold will prevent a student (from) achieving an automatic pass status.

The Examination and Assessment Board shall, in the case of a student who fails to reach a threshold but who in all other respects would be awarded a pass result, give individual consideration to the student's record at the award meeting but will not normally award a credit without further investigation (possibly with a viva-voce examination) into the student's mastery of the course.

Weighting of individual assignments within the assessment component shall reflect the relative difference in their importance or level of difficulty.

Full details of rules regarding carryover modules shall be clearly given in the Student Handbook/Assessment Guide. All core modules shall be excluded from carryovers.

Unseen written end of semester Continuous Assessment tests and examinations shall consist of two hours for NTA 4 – 5, two and half hours for NTA 6 – 7 and three hours for NTA 8 - 10. However:

Other assessment elements (e.g. end of course essay, project, and seen examination) may be included within the examinable component.

A different type or mix of examination involving oral, computer-marked, seen (for completion at home or at the examination centre) may be applied.

The normal written examination on some courses may be replaced altogether by another form of controlled assessment e.g. a dissertation, a project.

For the purpose of Continuous Assessment, a minimum of three (3) class tests must be conducted.

Before a candidate is allowed to appear for end of semester examination he/she shall have put in a minimum of 75% attendance to taught classes for the particular module.

A candidate who fails to meet a minimum of 75% attendance shall be allowed to repeat a semester/year if he/she was absent on acceptable grounds. In the case of unacceptable grounds, he/she shall be discontinued from the course.

Any detected examination irregularities during the conduct of a Continuous Assessment shall be immediately reported in writing by the examiner/invigilator to the Head of department who shall determine the appropriate course of action to be taken according to the circumstances and established rules and regulations.

The training department may normally vary the weighting of assessment components within the following limits, for courses that contribute credits towards the awards:

Final Examination component: 40%

Continuous Assessment component: 60%

For each of the assessment components under (i) above, the weight given to the practical examination or practical continuous assessment component, where applicable, shall be proportional to the weight assigned to the practical element in the module being assessed.

Within the continuous assessment component Computer Marked Tests shall not constitute more than 35% overall CA.

Whilst there is more flexibility on courses outside the programmes leading to awards the following constraints shall also be taken into account:

The largest element(s) of assessment must always be available to the Examination and Assessment Board.

At least 50% of the credit for any award must be obtained from courses with controlled assessment.

5.6 GUIDELINES FOR MARKING CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT AND RECORDING OF SCORES

The marker shall:

- 5.6.1 Review the question papers paying particular attention to ambiguity of questions set that may lead to misinterpretation by candidates.
- 5.6.2 Review and edit the model answers/suggested solutions carefully paying attention to what is required.
- 5.6.3 Review the marking scheme paying particular attention to weighting allocated to different questions or portions of a question based on the level of difficulty and required time for working out the solution.
- 5.6.4 Ascertain that the marks awarded to a solution carry sufficient weighting.

- 5.6.5 Mark according to the marking scheme.
- 5.6.6 While marking each question, check carefully if there is any continuation of the question in any other page of the main or supplementary answer book.
- 5.6.7 Take necessary notes or statistics during marking that will assist in evaluation of the candidates' performance.
- 5.6.8 Make sure that all marks that are less than 10 are preceded by 0.
- 5.6.9 Add correctly the total marks for each question and indicate the total at the end of the question.
- 5.6.10 Transfer the total marks for each question to the cover page of the answer book.
- 5.6.11 Add the total marks for all the questions attempted by each candidate.
- 5.6.12 Transfer the total marks for each candidate to the summary sheet for the marked question paper using NACTE FORM EXAM 01.
- 5.6.13 Transfer the marks for each question paper to the course module summary sheet (NACTE FORM EXAM 02).
- 5.6.14 Submit the course module summary sheet to the official responsible for compilation of assessment results for all course modules in the department using overall summary sheet NACTE FORM EXAM 03.
- 5.6.15 The Institutions shall ensure that assessment decisions are recorded and documented accurately and systematically and ensure that the decisions of relevant examination boards are published as quickly as possible, consistent with rigour of assessment and accuracy. Institutions shall therefore provide:
  - 5.6.16 Clear statements of the responsibilities of all those involved in computation, checking and recording of assessment decisions;
  - 5.6.17 Systems for back-up when using electronic storage or transmission of assessment data; and
  - 5.6.18 Clear policies on access to information on assessment judgments about individuals

5.7 GUIDELINES FOR SUBMISSION OF CONTINUOUS ASSESSMENT SCORES TO NACTE

- 5.7.2 Prior to submission of the continuous assessment results to NACTE the institution shall avail the candidates an opportunity for appeals with respect to marking, checking of correct records of marks, grades and point score.
- 5.7.3 For cases where the answer books for continuous assessments are returned to candidates after marking by the examiners, the appeals against marking or recording of scores on the answer book shall be lodged immediately upon receipt of the answer book by the candidate. The candidate shall immediately surrender the answer book to the examiner to avoid inclusion of additional solutions into the answer book.

- 5.7.4 The candidates shall therefore be required to check completeness of marking and correctness of record of marks and additions prior to leaving the room.
- 5.7.5 The information to be transmitted to NACTE shall include the overall summary sheet for each year of study using NACTE FORM EXAM 03.
- 5.7.6 The continuous assessment results shall be submitted to NACTE in a double sealed envelope with the inner envelope clearly marked "CA for NTA Level Programmes for Candidates from Institution NATIONAL COLLEGE OF TOURISM. For the Attention of the Executive Secretary, NACTE" The results shall be delivered to NACTE by Dispatch or Courier.

5.16 PROCEDURES AND CRITERIA FOR APPROVING EXAMINATIONS SET BY NATIONAL COLLEGE OF TOURISM

Examinations set and administered by NCT operating under NACTE are approved through the laid down procedures presented herein. The procedure is in line with Section 11 of the NACTE Act (No. 9 of 1997).
